The goal for this script is to make people browse the opportunities that my fictional travel company has to offer. They will also see how many rooms there are available, if it has a TV and how many bathrooms there are.

The task:

- Once a button is clicked, something will happen. If it is on the main page, a popup with information will appear, if it is inside the popup, it will disappear.